ABSTRACT

This dataset presents findings from Protection Profiling and Monitoring conducted by UNHCR and partners between July and October 2024 across Belarus, Bulgaria, Czechia, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Moldova, Poland, Romania, and Slovakia. The objective of this regional exercise is to strengthen evidence-based protection responses by regularly collecting and analyzing data on the profiles, protection risks, legal needs, displacement patterns, and basic needs of refugees from Ukraine. Data was gathered through household-level interviews conducted face-to-face at border crossing points, reception and transit centers, collective sites, and assistance locations in major cities. The structured questionnaire was administered by trained enumerators from UNHCR and partner organizations using digital data collection tools. Although respondents were selected to reduce bias, the sample follows a non-probability design and results should be interpreted as indicative rather than statistically representative of the refugee population.

DATA COLLECTION NOTES

Structured interviews were conducted with refugees from Ukraine by trained enumerators from UNHCR and partners, using the Kobo Toolbox. The data collection involved household-level interviews at various displacement-related locations across 11 countries. Though efforts were made to reduce bias through random selection, the sample is non-probability and results are indicative. Prior to upload, data cleanup was performed, including removal of records without consent, with respondent age under 18, or with departure dates before 24 February 2022. Variables on protection incidents and access to territory were also excluded from the external anonymised dataset.
